Proxmire Would Curb Computers' Credit Mistakes

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked to do something about those credit-billing computers which sometimes won't take the facts for an answer.

The problem, says Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is that corporations tend to rely completely on computers to send out monthly credit statements and refuse to admit the machines make mistakes.

And once a mistake is made, Proxmire said, it is almost impossible to get the error corrected; the computer reacts with an escalating series of statements coaxing, warning and threatening the customer about his credit rating.

Proxmire's bill requires a company to acknowledge within 10 days the receipt of a complaint that its computer has goofed. Before 60 days is up the firm would have to correct the error or explain to the consumer why there was no mistake.

"If the company failed to do both of these, it would forfeit the right to collect the amount the consumer claimed to be in error," Proxmire explained.

The next step would be up to the consumer. If he could prove an error, he could sue for a rebate, treble punitive damages and legal fees.

And the company would be required to inform the customer of his computer rights at the time he opened an account and on each monthly bill.

Proxmire's "fair credit billing bill" also requires statements be mailed at least 21 days before payment is due to end what he calls the shrinking billing period.

"Normally creditors allow a customer 30 days from the bill, but they don't pay the full new balance owed and thereby avoid any finance charge on the new balance," Proxmire explained. "When creditors do not send the billing statement promptly, however, the effect is to reduce the time the customer has to pay the bill. This means an added finance charge."

Britain's Chancellor is Dead

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Iain Macleod, as chancellor of the exchequer the second most powerful man in Britain's new Conservative government, died suddenly Monday night of a heart attack.

There was speculation that Prime Minister Edward Heath would ask Home Secretary Reginald Maudling to take over the financial post.

Macleod was 56, had been in politics 25 years, and had a notable career. First elected to the House of Commons in 1950, he was elevated to the Cabinet only two years later by Winston Churchill. Between 1952 and 1961 he was successively health minister, labor minister and colonial secretary, then for two years was chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, leader of the House of Commons and chairman of the Conservative party.

Macleod gave up his government and party posts in October 1963 to protest the maneuvering by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan which resulted in Sir Alec Douglas-Home being named Macmillan's successor. But a year later Macleod led the Conservatives' fight against the Labor government's steel nationalization bill, and after Heath replaced Douglas-Home as party leader in mid-1965, Macleod became the financial expert in the Tory shadow cabinet.

Macleod was stricken as he prepared for bed at No. 11 Downing Street, the chancellor's official residence. He died 10 minutes later, his wife Eva said he had been released on Sunday from a hospital where he underwent an emergency appendectomy July 7.

The son of a Scottish doctor, Macleod considered himself "center to right" in economic policies, but his liberal views on other issues, notably nonwhite immigration, caused disputes within his party.

no future because it depends too much on American aid. Ky reported. But he made no recommendations for lessening that dependence.

Ky also said he doubted the appointment of David K. E. Bruce to head the U.S. delegation at the Paris peace talks could bring any immediate progress or concrete results; progress in the talks depends on Hanoi's good will and the situation in Indochina in the days to come, Ky said.

He added that Bruce's appointment was nothing more than a gesture to ease the pressure from antiwar groups in the United States.

FTC Accuses Burger Chain of Deception

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused McDonald's Corporation of deception and false advertising. It said the hamburger chain awarded only $13,000 in prizes from its 1968 "McDonald's $500,000 sweepstakes."

Only 277 prizes with an approximate retail value of $13,000 were awarded despite the advertised claim that 15,610 prizes worth $500,000 would be given out.

Some participants were denied prizes even though they submitted winning entries.

The FTC said it would issue a formal complaint against McDonald's, its advertising agency and a promotional games company unless:

—Prizes worth $500,000 are in fact awarded and distributed.

—Persons who submitted winning entries are given the prizes they deserve.

—McDonald's discloses in all future contests the nature of all prizes, the number and approximate retail value of each type of prize and the exact odds of winning each prize.

In a proposed complaint which would go before the commission unless McDonald's agrees to the terms of a proposed consent order, the FTC contended:

—Chances of winning were one in 1.9 million to win a first prize, one in 190,000 to win a second prize, one in 12,500 to win a third prize, one in 4,700 to win a fourth prize and one in 1,800 to win a fifth prize, despite company's claims that participants had a reasonable opportunity to win.

Named in the proposed complaint were McDonald's and its subsidiary McDonald's Systems, Inc., both of Chicago; D'Arcy Advertising Co. of St. Louis; D.L. Blair Corp. of New York, which prepared and operated the sweepstakes; and Cy Dradey, an official of Blair, and its eight subsidiaries.

The complaint said approximately 19 million copies of an advertising insert were distributed in the June 1968 issue of Reader's Digest magazine. Each bore a coupon upon which was printed one of 11 numbers, five of which were designated as winning numbers.

Winning numbers were printed on 15,610 inserts and the six losing numbers on the remaining millions.

Recipients were told to compare the numbers they received with a list of winning numbers on display at McDonald's hamburger stands. If the numbers matched, holders of the coupons were entitled to a prize, ranging from a Ford station wagon, to a Tensor high intensity lamp.

The companies have 10 days to respond to the commission before a formal complaint is issued.

LONDON (AP) — With no end to Britain's dock strike in sight, foreign shippers have begun canceling or diverting cargoes consigned to British buyers.

Three North Atlantic cargo ship operators said Monday in New York they no longer are accepting consignments for the United Kingdom. One, the United States Lines, said shipments it already has en route to England will be held in other European ports.

Britain's Trades Union Congress, overseer of the Nation's labor movement, issued a statement that the dock workers' demands are in line with the TUC's "declared support for the establishment of reasonable basic standards of wages."

It was the first time since World War II the congress had given that much endorsement to a major nationwide strike.

The House of Commons voted 285 to 28 in endorsement of the Conservative government's declaration of a state of emergency, which clears the way for soldiers to be used as longshoremen. But the government still held back from ordering out the troops, which could bring nationwide retaliation by the TUC.

Navy Could Lose 100 More Ships

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy could lose another 100 ships from its already dwindling fleet under the Pentagon's next big budget cut, defense sources say.

The deep slash faces the Navy, as well as the other armed services, in the fiscal 1972 budget. Planning for that budget is well under way, and President Nixon has summoned top defense officials to confer on the question next Monday.

Pentagon authorities have said in recent weeks it may be necessary to cut proposed spending by about $6 billion in order to limit the next defense budget to somewhat over $70 billion. A $70 billion budget would be about $2 billion below the current fiscal year allotment.

The Nixon administration already has acted to retire more than 130 vessels and a layup of another hundred would cut the U.S. Navy to about 650 ships compared to a fleet of some 900 before the budget squeeze.

Some defense officials argue that many of the ships being retired—some dating back to World War II—are too old, too expensive and obsolescent in a combat sense.

The admirals, who have been urging fleet modernization for years with slight success, agree many vessels are over age.

But they wonder what the United States will do to fill gaps in its sea forces while slowly updating the fleet—particularly with a growing Soviet navy now operating on a global basis.

The total naval shipbuilding program in the past two years has provided a maximum of 48 ships—24 new vessels and the remainder conversions.

It takes years to build modern warships. A new program to construct 30 advanced destroyers will take eight years to complete.

Meanwhile, the signs of strain already are showing.

The U.S. 6th Fleet, operating in the Mediterranean near the inflamed Middle East, now has five to 10 fewer ships than it did up to last fall.

Adm. E. P. Holmes, commander in chief Atlantic, told a House committee recently he can no longer maintain an amphibious ready group in the Caribbean on a continuous basis.

This means that the United States has a battalion of Marines afloat in a critical region only on an intermittent basis.

Some relief has come from reductions in U.S. naval activity off Vietnam. Navy sources said the U.S. 7th Fleet has been reduced by one carrier, one cruiser and four destroyers.

U.S. Irked by Formosa China Raids

By WALTER H. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationalist China has staged many more raids across the Taiwan Straits in recent times than Red China despite growing U.S. concern the harassing action could escalate.

While the top U.S. diplomat in Taiwan dismissed the forays as pinprick raids in cockleshell boats, Ambassador Walter P. McCaughy acknowledged in Senate testimony that "even these small ones really should be avoided."

The McCaughy account of raids back and forth across the Taiwan Straits over the past five years was heavily censored before the publication Monday of testimony on U.S. commitments to Nationalist China.

McCaughy said the government of Chiang Kai-shek has been informed the United States will not be bound by a mutual defense treaty to aid the Nationalists against attack prompted by "offensive action against the mainland to which we had not agreed."

He said the actions involved included maritime raids, reconnaissance flights and propaganda shelling.

The ambassador said he did not think the forays were on a scale that would provoke "any dangerous reaction from the Chinese Communists."

"But we agree that in the present situation, it would be better if they did not take place."

WR's Secret 'Phone Hdqrs. in Old Marion Hotel Is Discovered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Word has finally leaked out on the secret project in the basement of the Rockefeller campaign headquarters in the Hotel Marion.

An extensive telephone survey system is situated in what was the Continental Room before the hotel ceased business May 31. The area has been declared off limits to reporters by campaign aides of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller. The aides said they had hoped to prevent word of the project from leaking out.

About 80 persons, many of them young women, work in the Continental Room using dozens of telephones, including numerous WATS (wide area telephone service) lines for direct dialing on long distance calls.

Sources said computerization, salaries, telephone service and other materials cost about $40,000 per month. The project is scheduled to run through August.

The survey crew puts four questions to citizens throughout the state.

The questions include:

—Do you plan to vote for Gov. Rockefeller?

—Do you plan to vote for the proposed new constitution?

—What political party do you belong to?

—Are you registered to vote?

When newsmen toured the Rockefeller layout on the second, first, and basement floors of the hotel a couple of weeks ago, Marion Burton, the governor's campaign director, declined to permit an inspection of the Continental Room.

Burton said a special project was geared for operation in the room. He said he didn't wish to "let the opposition know our modus operandi," but after the telephone calls began to flood the state the project became sort of an open secret.

Burton has continued to decline to elaborate on the survey, but other sources, who asked not to be identified, supplied the information.

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us! it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

Dear Helen:
I'm so mad I could scream! My girl friend and I just went to a drive-in movie. This guy next to us throws out an ice cream stick wrapper. Then he throws out the stick. So I say to my friend, "Hey, look at the litterbug," loud enough for him to hear.

Next he throws out a cup, just as the sign on the screen says, "We're proud of our nation." So I say, "Yea, but we're not proud of our polluters!"

Then he threw down a paper tray. By now I thought he got the hint but I guess not. So I said, "Well, I'll be darned," and he looked at me and growled, "Xtj". To which I replied, "We're the generation that has to clean up after people like you."

Well, he got real P.O.ed, and said, "If you were a man, I'd cram it up your nose." I came back with, "Somebody should cram it up yours so nobody would trip over it."

Whereupon he left to pollute another spot.

Helen, I didn't mean to be a teenage snob, but people like that really irk me. I know it didn't do any good 'cause from now on he'll just pollute to spite me.

My question is, what do you say to such people without them thinking you're a brat? —
REALLY BURNING
Dear R.B.:

Actions speak louder. Why didn't you get out of your car, silently pick up this litterbug's debris, and throw it in the trash can? He might get a flashback, next time he's tempted to leave picnic trash on the beach or throw beer cans in the lake. —H
Dear Helen:

I am 12, and my parents are getting a divorce. When they had their fights, my Dad said to my Mom, "I hate those kids, especially John because he looks like your father." I wasn't supposed to hear.

Now he says he wants to take us kids on trips. Since he doesn't love me, should I go along? —
JOHN

Dear John:
People say in anger the things that will hurt most. They don't always mean them. Give your Dad another chance: it will be easier if you remember the times you've shouted "Hate you!" and been sorry afterwards. —H

Dear Helen:
Congratulations on your advice to "Mother of the Groom." I, too, am to be married in a couple of months, and my fiancée is making the wedding gown and the bridesmaids dresses. The savings amount to quite a bit and, these days, money isn't too plentiful for most young couples.

Fit to Be Tie-Dyed

NEW YORK—(N E A)—Getting dressed today is no longer a simple matter. It's a challenge. You must choose your own skirt length, you must accessorize with scarves, vests, capes, floppy hats. You have to decide where your waist should be and whether to belt it. It boggles the mind.

This girl has found a way to say farewell to shy legs. She has tie-dyed her rights into an ingenious, colorful circle pattern. Rit, rubber hands, a wooden spoon, rubber gloves and a large metal or enamel pan were the only supplies needed to achieve this pattern.

Tax Free Dollars

Your neighbor carelessly backs his car into your fence, causing $200 worth of damage. Acknowledging his fault, he hands you a check for $200. Do you have to pay income tax on this amount?

No, because it is not really "income" at all. The money merely makes you "come out even."

Now, suppose he refuses to pay and you have to sue him for the money. Then, too, if you win the $200, it is tax free. Again, it simply makes you come out even.

This principle has wide application, notably in personal injury cases. Accident victims sometimes win verdicts involving large sums of money. To the extent that the money is compensation for their injuries, it is not subject to income tax.

In fact, the injury need not even be physical at all. In one case, a man won $100,000 for defamation of character. The government tried to collect income tax on this sum, but a court ruled that it was not taxable. The court said the purpose of the money was just to "make the plaintiff whole."

And in another case, the money that a girl won in a breach of promise suit was likewise held not taxable, since it was compensating her only for the harm she had suffered.

However a verdict may also include "punitive" damages, imposed not to compensate for the plaintiff's injury but to punish the defendant for his wrongful conduct. On this portion of the verdict, a tax may indeed be collected.

For example: In another defamation case, the plaintiff won $1,000—$650 for the damage done to his reputation, and $350 to teach the defendant a lesson. The $650 was held tax free, but the plaintiff did have to pay income tax on the $350. This was considered income because, in spite of the harm he had suffered, he came out $350 richer than he had been before.

Television and Running-Vine Tomatoes Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Inflation, rising costs, the economic squeeze and the loss of cigarette advertising are combining to make the upcoming television season the shortest ever.

The average series will have only 24 original shows. Some will have as few as 22, while a few lucky series will run as long as 26 weeks before going into reruns.

This means that the season will run out sometime in March, the exact week depending on whether the networks pad the time by dropping in a special or two.

Not only are high costs whittling away the number of shows, but some producers are having to cut corners in other ways, such as fewer sets, fewer location shooting and smaller casts.

Just 10 years ago a half-hour show such as "Richard Diamond" could be brought in for $39,000. Producer Bob Claver said "The Partridge Family" is costing $108,000 an episode. "That's a lot of bread when you think 'Diamond' was done for under $40,000," he said.

Eleven years ago, when "Bonanza" began, it cost $114,000, which was expensive then because it was the first program filmed entirely in color. This season it will cost $215,000 a show.

Hal Holbrook, starring in "The Senator," said budget restrictions are forcing some compromises in casting on the show. "The administrative staff is what keeps a senator going, but we can't cast as many assistants as we'd like to," he said.

Producer Aaron Ruben said Andy Griffith's new show, "Headmaster," is "costing at least a third more than Andy's original show 10 years ago. We have to hold down in some places. We don't show the whole faculty; there's no need to. We don't show all the students; there's no reason for that, either."

The ban on cigarette commercials, ordered by Congress effective Jan. 1, will mean a $226 million loss to the industry and a $150 million loss to the networks alone.

The rising cost of television programming is due to several factors, the most important of which is the cost of labor. Some new equipment and techniques are being introduced, but for the most part films—including television shows—are still being made the way they were 30 years ago.

Another reason is that the audience today demands a more sophisticated show and the extras cost money.

It's saving money for the sponsors and the networks, but it's costing the actors and writers. That's two less scripts on every series. What happens a few years from now when it's cut back to 22 or 20?"

Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — Right-hander Bill Singer accepted a $500 bonus for pitching a no-hitter for the Los Angeles Dodgers, but apologized for taking the money.

"I'm not worth it," said Singer of the bonus, although his teammates sent him a note urging him to hold out for more.

Singer, 26, handcuffed the Philadelphia Phillies Monday, 5-0, for his first no-hitter in seven seasons as a Dodger. The $500 bonus is a Dodger tradition dating back to Carl Erskine's no-hitter in 1952. Singer's teammates cite inflation.

"I have a real nice salary," he said. "I haven't justified my salary by being out for two months."

Singer was sidelined April 16 with infectious hepatitis, believed caught from teammate Pete Mikkelsen. He spent three weeks in a hospital and didn't return to the team until June 14.

"Quite remarkable!" said Dr. Robert Woods, who treated the Dodgers' 20-game winner. "I expected he'd be pitching but I did not expect him to do this well. It's fantastic!"

Actually, Singer already had shown he could still be one of the National League's top pitchers, and statistics bear him out when he says he has gotten "progressively stronger."

He pitched a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings June 23 at Atlanta, when he wasn't expected to go more than six innings. He came back to throw a two-hit shutout at the San Francisco Giants July 5. Singer is 6-1 since his return and 7-3 for the season.

"I had much better stuff today," Singer said. "My breaking ball was next to nothing in the last two innings at Atlanta."

Dodger catcher Jeff Torborg said Singer was throwing so hard that he thought he might suffer a bruised catching hand. "He was overpowering with his change of speeds," Torborg said, "then he threw the ball past 'em."

Singer was in command all the way, striking out 10 and walking none. Only two Phillies reached base, Oscar Gamble when he was hit by a pitch in the first inning and Don Money when Singer's erring throw pulled Wes Parker off first base in the seventh.

Maury Wills, inserted at third base in a defensive move by manager Walt Alston, went to his left for Larry Hise's hot grounder and threw him out in the eighth.

But Singer saved his own no-hitter in the fifth when Hise hit a liner up the middle. "Self-defense," said Bill. "It hit my glove and I got him out."

In the ninth, pinch-hitter Terry Harmon was out on a high bouncer and Denny Doyle lined out to Willie Davis in center. On a 2-2 pitch, Byron Brown lofted a foul that was coming down near the Phillies' dugout. Torborg caught it.

"I tripped over a bat or something — maybe it was my shadow," said Torborg. "But I'll tell you what: That thing wasn't going to hit the ground."

"On no-hitters the pitcher is supposed to strike out the last batter and not give his catcher a heart attack," he said.

Torborg caught the perfect game pitched by Sandy Koufax in 1965. "Each one is exciting as the other," he said.

Alston, whose team broke a three-game losing streak, said: "This kind of thing picks up the whole club when we need it. I'm not only happy for Bill, I'm happy for the whole club."

The no-hitter was the third in the major leagues this season, and all have occurred in Southern California. Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh no-hit the San Diego Padres June 12 and Clyde Wright of the California Angels did it against Oakland July 3 in Anaheim.

2 Americans Qualify For Golf Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Charles and Miller Barber have qualified, and Billy Casper is just about in, leaving only 10 berths open for American golfers for the Alcan World Championship Golf Tourney at Dublin, Ireland, in September.

Charles and Barber clinched their spots in the Philadelphia Golf Classic won Sunday by Casper.

Casper, the defending Alcan champion, has only to shoot a respectable score at the Avco Tourney in Sutton, Mass., Aug. 20-23, to qualify to defend his title.

Under the qualifying format in which the touring pros take their three best 72-hole scores in four selected tournaments, Charles and Miller are in with totals of 846 and 848, respectively, for three tourneys. Casper has a 556 total for two tourneys.

The four tourneys are the New Orleans, Western, Philadelphia and Avco. Casper withdrew from the Western.

Still in contention for the remaining berths after three tournaments are Howie Johnson at 851, Bob Murphy 853, Bob Rosburg 854, Jerry Heard 858, Rives McBee and Dave Stockton 859, George Archer, Jim Colbert and Tommy Jacobs 861, Gibby Gilbert 863, Steve Reid and Homero Blancas 864, Herb Hooper 872 and Pete Brown 874.

$510,000 Record Buy for Horse

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The bidding started at $100,000, and then it went up and up. . . $200,000, $300,000, $400,000 and $450,000.

When it was over, Frank McMahon, a lumber tycoon from Vancouver, British Columbia, had set a world record Monday night by buying a full brother to 1969 Kentucky Derby winner Majestic Prince for $510,000 at the Keeneland Summer Yearling Sales.

The previous record was set in 1968 when W. P. Russo paid $405,000 for Reine Enchanteur, a filly who is expected to start in her first race in New York later this week.

The record purchase also set Keeneland marks for the most paid by any one buyer and the most earned by any one seller — McMahon and Leslie Combs II, owner of the same Spendthrift Farm that produced Majestic Prince.

However, while McMahon must pay the entire $510,000, he later will receive a refund of about half that amount because he owns a half interest in the colt's dam.

L.A. Downs Phillies, 5-0 Score

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Singer started getting serious in the sixth inning, but the Philadelphia Phillies couldn't find anything funny about the Los Angeles right-hander in the first five.

"I kiddingly thought about a no-hitter in the first inning," said Singer Monday night after no-hitting Philadelphia 5-0. "I got serious in the sixth."

There had been omens that a no-hitter was in the cards for Singer, who had been out with infectious hepatitis for 53 days between April 22 and June 14.

The 26-year-old, now in his seventh season in the majors, pitched no-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings June 23 at Atlanta and posted a two-hit shutout against San Francisco July 5.

While Singer was boosting his record to 7-3 and putting his name in the record book, the tight battle for the top spot in the National League East remained the same. First place Pittsburgh lost 5-4 to Houston in 12 innings and remained two games ahead of the New York Mets, who bowed 7-4 to San Francisco.

Cincinnati swept St. Louis 4-3 and 4-0 in 10 innings. Atlanta took the Chicago Cubs 3-1 and 5-0 in a rain-shortened, five-inning game and San Diego edged Montreal 3-1.

In the American League, Oakland edged Boston 3-2, the New York Yankees downed California 6-1, Washington blanked Milwaukee 2-0, Baltimore trounced the Chicago White Sox 14-5, Minnesota took Cleveland 4-2 and Kansas City topped Detroit 3-0.

Singer struck out 10, walked nine and allowed only two base runners. Oscar Gamble was hit by a wild pitch and went to second when Singer threw wildly on a pickoff attempt. Don Money reached in the seventh when Singer fielded his grounder and threw wildly in one stretch Singer retired 18 straight batters.

RBI singles by Jim Lefebvre and Wes Parker, a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis and Bill Russell's two-run double backed the third no-hitter in the majors this year. Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh hurled one in the NL, and Clyde Wright of California posted one in the AL.

Pittsburgh tied Houston 4-4 in the ninth when Matty Alou singled home Fred Patek, who had delivered a pinch single, but the Astros won in the 12th on Bob Watson's RBI single with two out off Orlando Pena, the third Pirate pitcher of the mning.

Denis Menke homered and singled in a run for Houston, while Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson homered for Pittsburgh.

The Mets led 4-2 in the sixth when the Giants scored four runs. They gained a tie on an RBI single by Hal Lanier and Bob Heise and then won when reliever Danny Frisella forced in two runs with bases-loaded walks to Frank Johnson and Ron Hunt.

Wayne Garrett homered for the Mets and Dietz for San Francisco.

Pitcher Gary Nolan, 12-4, started Cincinnati's winning rally in the ninth inning of the first game against St. Louis. Nolan singled and then scored on Bobby Tolan's two out single.

The Reds had tied it 3-3 in the eighth when one run scored on Lee May's double and another on left fielder Lou Brock's error.

May's bases-loaded homer in the 10th broke a scoreless deadlock and gave the Reds the nightcap.

Atlanta took its opener against Chicago when Hank Aaron walked with two out in the ninth and his brother, Tommy smashed a homer.

THE Great Imperial SO GOOD THAT . . .

Baltimore 4 Games Over Detroit

by MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
President Nixon came out for a cooling off period in Washington when the real cooling off was needed in Chicago where the White Sox were being burned up by Elie Hendricks.

Hendricks and the Baltimore Orioles threw cold water on Detroit's surge toward the top in the American League East by bombing the White Sox 14-5 Monday night behind Hendricks grand slam homer and two-run double.

The victory boosted Baltimore's lead to four games over Detroit, which had climbed within three games before losing to Kansas City 3-0.

But it was the president who made the biggest hit of the night with Manager Ted Williams and his Senators. After watching Frank Howard blast a long homer in Washington's 2-0 victory over Milwaukee, Nixon came out in favor of Williams' rule that keeps his clubhouse closed to sportswriters for 15 minutes after each game.

It was a good idea "for politicians as well as baseball players," he said. "After a game, win or lose, fellows are a little bit wrought up. So give them time to cool off and then let them talk to the press."

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota topped Cleveland 4-2, New York clubbed California 6-1 and Oakland edged Boston 3-2.

In the National League, Bill Singer threw a no-hitter in Los Angeles, 5-0 victory over Philadelphia. Cincinnati swept St. Louis 4-3 and 4-0 in 10 innings. Houston edged Pittsburgh 5-4 in 12 innings. Atlanta won two from the Chicago Cubs 3-1 and 5-0 with the second game halted after five innings by rain. San Diego beat Montreal 3-1 and San Francisco topped the New York Mets 7-4.

The president told Williams personally of his approval of the controversial closed clubhouse rule, and Williams must have appreciated the vote of confidence as much as Howard's big hit.

Howard's 25th homer with two out in the sixth inning off Al Downing, 37, bounced off the mezzanine in center field, about 450 feet away. The Senators got only one other hit, Tim Lincecum's leadoff single in the first inning. He came around on a walk to Howard and a wild pickoff throw to first by catcher Phil Ruff.

Jim Hannon, 5-3, gave only five hits before Darold Knowles replaced him with one out after two singles in the ninth and recorded his 20th save by retiring the side.

The Orioles, who had lost three of their last four games while Detroit was winning five in a row, burned up the White Sox with six runs in the second inning, four in the seventh and three in the ninth.

Hendricks doubled in two runs in the second and then walloped his first grand slam in the seventh as Mike Cuellar, 14-5, cruised in.

Jim Rooker, 6-9, cooled off the Tigers with a six-hitter, ending Kansas City's six-game losing streak and the eight game winning string of his mound rival, Les Cain, 9-3. Rooker also singled in one run.

Jim Kaat, 8-7, won his 150th major league game for Minnesota with relief help from Ron Perranoski in the eighth inning. It was Perranoski's 13th save. Cesar Tovar had two doubles and a single and scored two runs to lead the Twins as they ended Cleveland's four-game winning skid.

Fritz Peterson, 11-6, slowed California with a three-hitter after the Angels had won five of six games. It was Peterson's first victory since June 25 and the Yankees made it easy for him as Danny Cater ripped a single, double and homer and drove in three runs and Curt Bleitner hit his eighth homer and four in seven games.

Frank Fernandez hit a decisive solo homer, his 11th, in the fourth inning for a 3-1 Oakland lead, cutting the A's losing streak at four games.

Lawyer Says Embezzling Easy at SCA

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—An attorney for Robert L. Pruitt, 31, former head cashier at State College of Arkansas, told a Circuit Court Jury here Monday that he would present evidence to show that it would be easy for anyone to take hundreds of thousands of dollars from the school.

Pruitt is being tried on charges of embezzling $28,655.50 over a nine-month period in 1969. A report released by the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee last week showed a $29,000 shortage in college funds.

Murray Miller of Phoenix, Ariz., Pruitt's lawyer, said the college "had no systems whatsoever" to control the flow of money in the school.

Prosecutor Jeff Mobley of Russellville said in his opening statement the state would prove that Pruitt spent more than $51,000 over his take-home pay in the length of time he was employed at SCA.

Mrs. Virginia Smith, a secretary at the school, testified that almost daily she would get petty cash from Conway banks for the school's operation.

She said the funds were brought from the bank and distributed to various college departments. She said the departments made their request for funds on a small piece of paper, which she threw away after delivery of the money. Mrs. Smith said she never asked for a receipt for the funds.

Bennie Horton, who was SCA comptroller in 1969, testified that he had discussed a $13,900 shortage of funds with Pruitt in November 1969, two months after about 75 receipts were

Maxwell Should Seek New Trial

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office said Monday that the proper course in the case of William L. Maxwell was for the prisoner to seek a new hearing in Garland Circuit Court.

U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley had asked Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell earlier this month for his opinion on what the next step should be in Maxwell's case.

Maxwell, whose death sentence was set aside by the U.S. Supreme Court in June, was convicted of rape in 1962 at Hot Springs. The high court was expected to decide the constitutionality of the death sentence in his appeal but instead set the sentence aside on another point.

The court said the sentence was wrong because several jurors were excluded for expressing doubts about the death penalty.

Stalemate Over NFL Pension Fund

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football stalemate continued today as the National Football League club owners meet in special session and the big money stars lined up behind their player association.

According to John Mackey of Baltimore, president of the NFL Players Association, the issue boils down to one thing—how much the owners are going to put into the retirement fund over the next four years.

Alan Miller, general counsel for the NFLPA, claims the players want an increase of $3.6 million-per-year for the pension plan and the owners are offering an increase of $1.7 million. He said Monday it was not possible to break down the proposed pension at this time into dollar and cent benefits.

As the owners gathered there were hints some were of the opinion their negotiating committee already had been over-generous in their offers.

The players called a news conference Monday afternoon to clarify their stand.

Such big names as quarterbacks Roman Gabriel of Los Angeles, Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants, John Brodie of San Francisco and John Hadl of San Diego backed the association. So did Gale Sayers, the great running back of the Chicago Bears and linebackers Jim Houston of Cleveland and Larry Grantham of the New York Jets.

Ernie Wright, Cincinnati tackle, Kermit Alexander, defensive back from Los Angeles, and John Wilbur, Dallas guard, also were present to stand up and be counted.

Mackey read a wire from Jim Tyrer, player representative of the world champion Kansas City Chiefs who said the team had voted not to report to camp, even if the owners open the doors, until the dispute is settled. The Chiefs stand is extra important because they are due to play the College All-Stars in Chicago July 31. The All-Stars are hard at work.

Grantham reported the Jets also had voted unanimously not to hold any formal workouts until the matter is resolved. He said about 25 veterans held an unofficial session Monday and expect to continue them.

Mackey said the news conference had been called to clarify the players' position. He said the players never proposed any increase in ticket prices as part of their proposal and never suggested that pension benefits for coaches, trainers or front office help be discontinued or curtailed.

He also said some printed reports of possible pension benefits were "unrealistic." Mackey pointed out that it was the NFL, not the players' association, which was trying to renegotiate a Pro Bowl (All-Star game) contract with a Los Angeles newspaper.

According to Miller the average cost of the proposed increase would be $170,000-a-year for four years by each of the 26 clubs. He claimed the owners offered an annual increase of $60,000 per club, leaving a difference of $110,000 per club.

In the meantime, the date for the All-Star game in Chicago is only 10 days off. The players say they regret the game is endangered and claim they are doing everything possible to speed up negotiations, but the owners had not answered their last four proposals.

Student Fees at SCA Used for Pasture

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — An audit that was filed last week with the state Legislative Joint Audit Committee has revealed that student activity fees at State College of Arkansas here are being used to buy two lots next door to the home of Silas Snow, SCA president, and are being used to pasture Snow's horses.

The audit said the land cost $28,697.25. The two lots are northeast of Snow's home. Assessment records indicate the land was only worth $6,000.

Records of the college show that the Board of Trustees pledged to pay for the lots "solely from and out of the fees collected by State College of Arkansas from its students, commonly called 'activity fees'."

Whitworth Top $ Winner in LPGA

ATLANTA (AP) — Kathy Whitworth of Richardson, Tex., with $20,165.01 in winnings, has displaced Sandra Haynie of Dallas as top money winner among Ladies Professional Golf Association touring players.

Miss Whitworth's sixth-place winning of $866.67 in the Jaycee Open at Springfield, Ohio, last week meant the difference. Miss Haynie, who did not play last week, has $19,911 in winnings.

A $3,000 purse by Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., boosted her from 11th to seventh place with $12,749 in total winnings.

Jo Ann Prentice finished third in the open, but her winnings were not enough and she fell from the top 10.

Carol Mann of Baltimore remained in third at $19,075, while Shirley Englehorn of Palm Desert, Calif., remained in fourth at $17,703.

The move up to fifth place of Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., with $13,215 dropped Donna Caponi of North Hollywood, Calif., into sixth place with $13,187.

Other top money winners are Marilyn Smith, Jupiter, Fla., No. 8, $12,334; Mary Mills, Handsboro, Miss., $11,669, No. 9, and Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., $11,611, No. 10.

Aussie Still Leading in Swimming

By NOEL HUGHES
Associated Press Sports Writer
EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Australia has shown at the Commonwealth Games here that it is still a force to be reckoned with—after nearly 20 years in the top flight of international swimming competition.

Two world record holders, Mike Wenden and Karen Moras, have scooped up five gold medals between them and Australian Coach Don Talbot has plenty of fresh talent to back up his stars.

Who are the new Australian swimmers to watch for?

Heidi Gray and Debbie Cain are the 13-year-old babies of the squad.

Heidi finished second—a long way behind—in the finals of the 800-meter freestyle. But her performance was incredible when related against 16-year-old Miss Moras' record shattering time.

Miss Moras knocked seven seconds off the old world mark to collect her second gold medal. Her time was 9:02.45.

Debbie is the Australian backstroke champion at 100 and 200 meters.

Don McCune Champion in Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Don McCune, the leader almost since the beginning of play, captured his second professional bowling title Monday night in the $30,000 Houston Open Bowling Tournament.

The soft-spoken McCune from Munster, Ind., who had won only one other title in a 7-year career—that in Fort Worth two years ago—dropped his final game of the 40-game tournament by a 278-246 count to runner-up Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill.

McCune's lead going into the last match was 146 pins and even though he lost, he finally won by a 64 pin margin.

Victory was worth $3,000 while Stefanich, who was gunning for his 11th Professional Bowlers' Association crown, won $1,600.

Though victory was his, McCune, whose record was 10-6, did not knock down the most pins. That honor went to Stefanich, whose 9,177 pinfall, came out to an average of 229 per game, compared to McCune's 227. In the match game phase, 50 bonus pins go to the winner of each game and it was McCune's superior won-loss record that meant victory.

Sun Kings Wallop Arkansas

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The El Paso Sun Kings erupted for four runs in the bottom of the fifth inning Monday night to wallop Arkansas 7-4 in a Texas League baseball game.

Paul Alderette whacked home two runs with a single and singles by Larry Hansen and Jerry Feldman brought in the other two in the decisive fifth inning. El Paso's barrage ended a 3-3 deadlock.

Seven errors occurred during the game, four by the Sun Kings.

Jim Englehardt, now 2-2, got the victory.

In other Texas League action, Dallas' Fort Worth outscored Memphis 10-8, Amarillo edged Shreveport 4-3 and Albuquerque defeated San Antonio 3-1.

When your partner opens with one of a major suit, there is a simple Standard American response of two no-trump to show 13-15 balanced points. Usually you wind up at a happy three no-trump or four of partner's suit but minor-suit slams are likely to be missed. On other occasions, your three no-trump or four of a suit is an inferior game contract.

Thus, we have found that, in the long run, you can get along very well without this bid and in the Jacoby system the two no-trump response to a major suit opening by an unpassed hand is reserved as a forcing raise of partner's suit. When we do pick up this balanced 13-15, we respond with two of a minor suit and have no difficulty getting to where we belong. We may waste a round of bidding, but we can afford this particular waste.

When partner opens with a minor suit, the case is quite different. With a balanced 13-15 and five-card support for our partner's suit, we may well be sure of three no-trump and not of five of his suit. This is especially true when we also have a sound reason for wanting the lead to come up to our hand if no-trump is to be played.

Today's hand is a good example of this. If South responds three diamonds, his partner will probably bid three no-trump and a heart lead by East will leave him one trick down before he can

Wedgwood Fires Special, Limited Pieces of China Just for Collectors

By JIM CROSSLEY

Sparkling in china closets since the American Revolution have been treasured pieces of Wedgwood china and Jasperware, prized possessions of their housewife-owners.

And valuable as well. The British pottery which created them started operations in 1769. Some specimens are worth thousands of dollars. There are library books to help owners evaluate their pieces. The products of the potteries, continuing uninterrupted right up to today, remain at the very apex of quality.

Thanks to the devotion of a Philadelphian, Milton Aion, no longer are the masterworks of Wedgwood craftsmen restricted to museums and a handful of private collectors.

Through Aion's initiative, the Wedgwood Collectors Society has been formed. Membership permits purchase of special pieces fired by Wedgwood exclusively for the society. Aion and the society are creating an unusual new chapter in collecting history.

While the opportunity for ownership of articles of authentic beauty is the objective, there is a tidy bonus. The items—some of them reproductions of rare old 18th- and 19th-century pieces made from the original molds—are an investment. Because they are rarities, made in limited numbers, they'll appreciate in value from first unwrapping, a hedge against inflation.

Josiah Wedgwood I was the genius who made a mark with his potter's skill, first with an improved cream-colored earthenware called Queen's Ware. Jasperware, his final perfection, came in 1774. It was a perfectly hard white stoneware with nearly the same properties as porcelain.

Josiah was closely linked to America from the start. Early, he dispatched an ex-

Take These Precautions To Cut Down Home Burns

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Burns in the home continue to claim thousands of victims annually. Most of these accidents are caused by overheating cooking oil or wearing flammable fabrics around an open fire.

To prevent the former you should 1) always heat cooking oil slowly; 2) cut down the heat at the first sign the oil is smoking; 3) keep a pan lid handy so that, if the oil bursts into flame, you can cover it quickly; 4) never turn your back on a pan of heating oil and 5) never take potatoes out of water and toss them into hot oil. You should dry them first because water will cause hot oil to splatter or explode.

As for fabrics, the most flammable are cotton and rayon. Linen catches fire easily but the flame is readily extinguished. Three new fabrics that are guaranteed to be fire-resistant—Dynel, Teklan and Verel—have been developed. Whether or not they will become popular will depend on whether a demand is created by an alert and safety-conscious public.

Q—I am trying to lose weight. My doctor has pre- pedition to investigate a special clay he heard was used by Cherokee Indians to make their clay pipes. His fascinating little slave cameo medallion is prized by collectors. A forerunner of the propaganda buttons of today, it was made by him to further the cause of England's Anti-Slavery Committee and depicts a slave in chains. A number of them were sent to his American friend, Benjamin Franklin.

An outstanding contribution of Josiah's was the method he developed for coloring Wedgwood Jasperware, then overlaying the pieces with distinctive pure white bas-relief decorations.

It is hard to believe that these decorations are still created as they have always been by being shaped in handmade molds, then delicately pressed into place by skilled fingers which never leave a mark.

Milton Aion's remarkable collectors' society may be the forerunner of a whole new complex of such organizations.

Three special editions in Wedgwood have been distributed since the club's founding. The member receives a personalized Wedgwood plaque. There was a plate decorated with signs of the zodiac. Currently, members may acquire an exquisite "spill vase" in traditional Wedgwood blue decorated with the figure of a revolutionary militiaman and 13 stars. What makes the vase especially delightful is the knowledge that the original was a useful article in colonial homes, containing "spills," long wooden splinters used before the invention of matches to transfer the fire-place flames to candles or pipes.

AEC Beset by 10-Ft. Corn, E.2nd St. Increasing Opposition

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission, beset by increasing opposition to its programs and attitudes, is retaliating with tactics its critics label suppression, unneeded secrecy and personal attack.

Criticism over intertwining issues of pollution, radiation, health and safety is arising from both the emerging concern over environment and the inherent conflicts in the AEC's dual role as promoter and regulator of atomic energy.

The bureaucratic devices used by the agency to counter the dissent are heightening some controversies and threatening the AEC's reputation for scientific objectivity.

"The AEC has the worst public relations since the storm troopers," commented one scientist.

Many AEC officials are working to change that image. But many others provide ample evidence of how that negative image developed.

For example: —In Denver, a state public health service officer says when he asked the AEC about reports plutonium had been found in the soil outside a nearby weapons manufacturing facility, "they just said they'd rather not discuss it at that time."

—Drs. John Gofman and Arthur Tamplin of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., have attacked federal radiation exposure limits as far too high. Their theory has set off an emotional, name-calling debate between the AEC and the two scientists.

For years the AEC has had the task of selling the public the idea that there were peaceful uses for atomic energy.

Born in the shadow of the mushroom clouds that rose over Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the AEC faced a public frightened by the power science unleashed.

After adjusting to the obvious potential devastation from nuclear weapons, the public gradually became aware of another hazard: radiation, the potentially deadly rays emitted by radioactive material.

As interest grew in pollution and the environment, attention focused on the growing nuclear industry and the minute quantities of radiation going into the air and streams. Was this the first stage of a new and particularly deadly form of pollution?

Questions like these arose about activities the AEC sponsors:

Are nuclear power plants a safe answer to the nation's rapidly growing demand for electricity? Is there a chance a power plant accident could spew deadly radiation over a heavily populated area? Will small amounts of radiation that leak from such plants add to the cancer death toll?

Can millions of gallons of highly radioactive liquid waste — the garbage of the nuclear industry — be stored safely in AEC depots for a thousand years, the time needed for its radioactivity to die off? Is the AEC moving fast enough to convert it from liquid to a safer solid form?

Do underground nuclear blasts trigger earthquakes? Why did the AEC choose Amchitka, an earthquake-prone Aleutian island, for the biggest underground explosions yet?

On Sunday, May 11, 1969, the most expensive industrial fire in American history swept through the main production building at the AEC's Rocky Flats plant 25 miles northwest of Denver.

That $50 million fire touched off a series of events that tell a lot about AEC attitudes, good and bad.

The Rocky Flats plant sits on a desolate stretch of flat, dry ground midway between Denver and the Rocky Mountains. Operated by Dow Chemical Co. under contract with the AEC, the 17-year-old plant's chief product is plutonium parts for nuclear weapons.

Rocky Flats produces only pieces of warheads for inclusion elsewhere in a completed weapon, so there is no danger of a nuclear explosion there.

But there is considerable debate about the danger, particularly to workers, of plutonium.

Plutonium radioactivity is not immediately detectable, unlike that of many other elements.

It is deadly if enough of it gets into the blood stream or the lungs, as through a cut or inhalation.

Pictured here is Horace Williams of 914 East 2nd St. in the garden he and his son David grow behind their house. The giant corn stalks are 10 feet 3 inches tall. The corn, which is Funk's G Hybrid, was planted in late May.

The possibility that plutonium which still has half its radioactivity after 24,400 years, was blowing around outside the Rocky Flats plant worried Dr. E. A. Martell, a member of the private Colorado Committee for Environmental Information.

Martell, a West Point graduate, had been associated with nuclear weapons testing from its earliest days until 1962.

Now senior scientist on the staff of the National Science Foundation's Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo., Martell recalled that in 1962 he told a congressional committee that nuclear weapons tests in Nevada were an important contributing factor to radioactive iodine fallout which was showing up in milk and then in the thyroid glands of children.

"When the May 11, fire was first announced, it was just a little affair," Martell said. "Later it came out it was $45 to $50 million and involved a huge sum of plutonium."

Members of the Colorado environmental committee asked Dow officials if plutonium might have gotten into the air and carried, like fallout, beyond the plant boundaries.

"They put us off," recalls Martell.

So the committee went to Gov. John Love who wrote to AEC Chairman Glenn Seaborg.

Maj. Gen. E. B. Giller, chief of the weapons division of the AEC, who has a reputation as being one of the most open and cooperative of AEC officials, told Dow officials to give the Colorado group all the information it requested within security limitations.

Larry Allen Golden and Burney H. Olinghouse, both of Little Rock, were given two-year sentences but Cummings withheld pronouncement of the sentences until they made the trip to the prison with their parents.

Cummings also ordered the two to write a 500-word essay on what they saw at the penitentiary.

He told the boys that they must graduate from college, get a job, and report monthly for two years, and actively help educate others against drug abuses.

To Demolish Criticized 'Tiger Cages'

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today it will demolish the so-called "tiger cages" at the Con Son Island prison and replace them with new disciplinary cells.

The cells, center of international controversy since two U.S. congressmen revealed their existence two weeks ago, will be dismantled immediately, a spokesman said.

He added that a survey of South Vietnam's correctional institutions will be made with a view to such improvements as the government can afford.

About 9,000 prisoners are held at Con Son, 140 miles southeast of Saigon in the South China Sea. Many are political prisoners, and several hundred of these have been confined to the "tiger cages," small cells open only at the top in which three to seven persons are confined.

The new cells, said Information Ministry spokesman Nguyen Ngoc Huyen, "will not be the same. They will be different. They will be better ones."

The tiger cages were first used by the French colonial administration in the mid-19th century, and the Saigon government said last year they had been abandoned. But Reps. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., and William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., managed to see them and the prisoners in them when they visited the island prison.

The two congressmen and others in their party said the prisoners in the cages were denied adequate food, water and medicine and were subjected to physical abuse and other mistreatment.

Their disclosures set off an international outcry, in the Western world as well as from Communist nations. All condemned the South Vietnamese government for its treatment of the prisoners and the United States was criticized because it furnishes financial aid and American advisers to the South Vietnamese.

In reply to the criticism, a spokesman for the Saigon government said those confined to the cages were Communist incorrigibles who had not responded properly to the prison re-education process.

Entries Open in Soy Bean Contest

Hempstead County soybean growers have been invited to participate in a five-acre soybean yield recognition program, says Calvin J. Caldwell, county Extension agent.

Sponsored by the Arkansas Soybean Association in cooperation with the Arkansas Agricultural Extension Service, the program is aimed at increasing the per acre production of soybeans in the state.

Ruel Nester, Extension Incentive Nester, Extension Agronomist, said entry forms—to be turned in before August 1—are available from County Soybean Committee members; the Arkansas Soybean Association at 306 Bond Street, West Memphis, Ark. 72301; or at County Extension Offices.

Entries, limited to one per farming unit, will consist of five or more acres from a field of 10 acres or more of soybeans. County Soybean Certifying Committee members will observe the harvesting and weighing of entries. The samples will also be checked for moisture content and foreign material.

The entry form to be filled in by participants will indicate cultural practices used, soybean variety, row width, and row spacing, soil type, and other factors responsible for high low yield.

Winners, those growers who produce the most beans per acre, will be recognized at a banquet at the end of the harvesting season and at the Arkansas Soybean Association annual meeting.

The number one grower of the state and his wife will get an expense paid trip to Europe sponsored by Elanco Chemical Company.

university. This shooting occurred in the city's Negro section. Police said Dowdell was shot during an investigation of reports that there had been sniping in the area.

Patrolman William Garrett was relieved of his duties pending a coroner's inquest into Dowdell's death.

Friday night Patrolman Eugene Williams was wounded in the chest by a sniper, police said, while he was patrolling the Negro section.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, youths gathered near the campus, started small trash fires, taunted police and firemen and tried to burn down a vacant, condemned apartment house in the block. It is owned by a university professor and once was known as a commune for hippies.

Police wore bullet-proof vests while protecting firemen who put out the fires.

Monday night's incident occurred on Oread Avenue in the first block north of the entrance to the campus. The block is lined with private apartments where most of the demonstrators live. Some are students. Many are known as hippies. City police call them "street people."

A group started a fire in a trash can, ran to the end of the block and opened a fire hydrant. Some of them then overturned a small car.

Gary Shivers, a radio newsman, said he was standing nearby and saw the youths trying to set fire to the car when the police charged up the street.

Youths with Rice said they were running from the overturned car with police in pursuit when he was hit by gunfire.

Police declined to comment. Dispersed by tear gas and the shooting, the youths disappeared into their apartments along the street. Later about 30 to 50 filtered back on the street but dispersed again when told that police would drive them off if they remained.

Urban League Asks Billions for Poor

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, says 25 U.S. senators are prepared to sponsor a multi-billion-dollar "domestic Marshall Plan" to aid the nation's poor.

Young told a news conference Monday at the league's 60th annual convention that the bipartisan group of senators had asked him to update the plan that he proposed in 1964.

"At that time, in 1964, that was before the riots, and so most people smiled nicely and forgot it," he said. "Since the riots, since the unrest, since the call for reparations and the churches have been disrupted, now people are coming back saying, 'What about that Marshall Plan?'"

"I submit to you that if in fact this country had in 1964 instituted a domestic Marshall Plan with a timetable, we would not have had a racial disturbance in this country, and in the absence of that planning, we are going to continue to have it."

Young declined to name the senators in the group except for Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Welfare Plan Goes to Capitol Hill

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson took the Nixon administration's welfare package to Capitol Hill today, needing all the mental fortitude he used to impress senators in his first congressional appearance as welfare secretary a week ago.

Richardson was scheduled before the Senate Finance Committee as it turned again to the welfare proposals that have come under attack from members of both parties—particularly the guaranteed-annual-income concept and the family assistance program.

Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said in a Senate speech Monday, "I am very reluctant to support anything so costly unless we have assurances that it is a good national investment."

And Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., charging the administration plan amounts to an expansion of welfare, offered an amendment adding a broad, new work-incentive provision. This would allow tax credits for businessmen hiring welfare recipients.

Work incentive was one of the key points of criticism about the House-approved measure which former HEW Secretary Robert Finch presented to the Finance Committee several weeks ago.

Republicans and Democrats said then welfare recipients would be better off under the administration bill on the public dole than working.

Welfare clients would receive Medicaid, food stamps and public housing aid as well as direct cash assistance in order to guarantee a family of four with $1,600 a year, continuing on a sliding scale until household income passed $3,920.

In announcing revisions to the program, President Nixon proposed overhaul of the food stamp program and a new health insurance system to be introduced next year.

Under Talmadge's amendment, private businesses that employ persons under the work-incentive provisions of the welfare act would receive a tax credit of 20 per cent of each individual's wages.

This, he said, would compensate employers who hire poor job risks.

2nd Welfare Raise Is Rumored

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Malone Jr. of Lonoke, a Democratic candidate for governor, said Monday that he wouldn't be surprised if the administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller gave welfare recipients another raise before the campaign is over.

In a paid political speech over a Little Rock television station, Malone said that if he were elected governor he would raise welfare benefits to $110 a month without a tax increase.

Malone noted that before the Rockefeller administration recently announced a $6-a-month increase in welfare benefits, he had made a similar proposal. He said he had forced the administration's hand in getting the increase.

Malone also came out against the repeal of the railroad full-crew law. The law requires at least six persons to operate a train of more than 25 cars in Arkansas.

He said the repeal of the law would not result in reduced freight rates or more money being channeled into safety devices at all crossings. He said the money would go "into the pockets of the large stockholders of these railroads to be piled on top of the subsidies from the federal government, which have been converted to dividends."

"There will be more accidents and your safety and the safety of your family will be jeopardized and there will be hungry children in the families of those men who will be out of work if the full crew law is repealed," Malone said.

He also reiterated he was against increased taxes and that state government could be operated under its current revenues. He said he would lead the fight for more money for schools "when economic conditions have changed and you are

Credibility Gap, or the World Is Flat; Parade Thursday

Listening to radio broadcasts Monday on the first anniversary of man's landing on the moon I heard a replay of Neil A. Armstrong's famous one-line message:

"Tranquility Base, here—the Eagle has arrived!"

Ever since that magic event of a year ago humanity has been developing some disturbing reactions. Six hundred millions around the world followed the moon-landing on TV or radio—yet every now and then pollsters turn up segments of the world population which stoutly claim the moon-landing was a fake—it never really happened.

I'd say that might be a communications gap to end all Communications Gaps. But actually it's an inherent fault of people themselves. Some are born to be chronic disbelievers, no matter what they are told, no matter how many pictures are offered as proof.

Why be disturbed about the lunatic fringe's rejection of the fact of a landing on the moon—when there still exists in civilized Great Britain an organization which holds at this late day that the world is flat?

The moon landing is only one year old. But the fact that the earth is not flat was demonstrated 400 years ago when the great navigators of the Middle Ages sailed around it.

Thursday at 3 p.m. is the time Hope goes on parade to honor Donna Connelly, Miss Arkansas; and Marjorie Royston, Miss Congeniality—our two winners at the state-wide Miss Arkansas Pageant in Hot Springs Saturday night.

The signs will be marking this as their home town. Let's make it a big affair Thursday.

Light Rain for Most of Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scattered light rain that fell over most sections of Arkansas Monday night and this morning was expected to end today with a slight warming trend to begin Wednesday.

A weak upper air low pressure trough developed over Oklahoma and Kansas Monday, bringing the rain into the state. The trough moved slowly eastward today and the shower activity was expected to end slowly from northwest to southeast across the state.

The cold front that sliced into the state late Sunday night has slowly moved east of the state.

The high pressure center of cool Canadian air is now over southern Minnesota and Iowa and is expected to drift slowly eastward leaving a high pressure ridge extending southwestward across Arkansas into Texas.

Tropical storm Becky in the Gulf of Mexico was moving northward at about 10 miles per hour today. Rainfall associated with the storm was expected to remain to the east and south of the state.

Decreasing cloudiness is predicted through Wednesday.

Highs over the state Monday ranged from a very cool 67 at Harrison to 96 at El Dorado.

Rainfall recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today included 1.1 of an inch at Fayetteville, .08 at Jonesboro, .16 at Pine Bluff, .03 at Texarkana, .51 at El Dorado and .08 at Little Rock.

Minor Collision at Town & Country

City police report that Monday at 11:30 a.m. in the Town and Country parking lot a car driven by Winnie Jean Alexander of Waskom, Texas, backed into the car of Howard Henry Watkins of Clifton, S.C. Both drivers left the scene of the accident. Minor damage was done to the Watkins car. No charges were filed.

Interstate May Cost $75 Billion

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's push to build superhighways coast to coast will wind up costing three times what it took to put men on the moon if Congress shoves the total expense for the interstate road system to $75 billion.

The latest figures also indicate the highway program, already behind schedule, won't be finished until at least 1978.

The soaring costs are now almost double the original estimate of $41 billion for the superhighway system begun a decade and a half ago.

Pushed by inflation—average construction bids on highways skyrocketed by a record 9 percent last year alone—and the need for costly design changes, the Federal Highway Administration last spring sent Congress a $70 billion estimate for finishing the interstate program.

But that estimate, based on two-year-old construction prices, was outdated, unrealistic and too low, according to a congressional source.

Reflecting this, the House subcommittee on roads is polishing a new highway bill this week that is expected to earmark an extra $5 billion in hiking the final cost estimate to $75 billion.

Almost all the stunning increase in the superhighway costs over the original estimate has come in the last half-dozen years.

In addition to the $9 billion caused by inflation, changes in design to build stronger and wider highways have cost another $8 billion. Added miles, safety improvements, and landscaping have also boosted the cost.

Any day now, what has been actually spent will pass the original $41 billion estimate for the web of superhighways begun in 1956.

That first $41 billion has built 30,000 miles out of a planned 12,500-mile network that will be the world's largest, safest and most modern road system. But the miles still to come are going to be the costliest.

By law, the superhighway complex now has a mid-1974 deadline for completion, two years later than first planned. But highway officials aren't ready to predict a single coast-to-coast interstate route will be open without any missing links, before 1976.

The Federal Highway Administration is talking in terms of wrapping up the whole system by 1978. Some skeptics say a few stalled segments trapped in urban disputes may not be done before the 1980s, if ever.

Boyle Finds Men Now Carry Umbrellas for Safety, Not Weather

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The weather has nothing to do with why so many men now carry umbrellas in the big cities after dark. They aren't as afraid of being rained upon as jumped upon.

Nothing is less anonymous than a horse fly in a boudoir.

One of the things about pole vaulters that has puzzled me for years is how they manage to get their vaulting poles from one track meet to another. The poles are too long to fit easily into cars, bus, train or airplane.

On the other hand, it would seem too expensive to transport them on flatbed trucks as if they were skyscraper beams. My guess is that they put the front end of the pole on one midjet's shoulder and the back end on another midjet, and then tell both midjets that whichever gets his end of the pole first to the next track meet site wins $10.

Cong Forces Moving Into NW Cambodia

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Large Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces have moved into the Siem Reap-Angkor area of northwest Cambodia, reports from Siem Reap said today. They indicated a major new Communist offensive may be launched soon.

The provincial military headquarters at Siem Reap reported that enemy forces were continuing nightly attacks, probing for weak points in the army's defenses.

Intelligence reports indicate that the Communist Command wants to capture Siem Reap so it can return the deposed chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and his government in exile to the nearby ruins at Angkor, the ancient seat of the Khmer empire.

Enemy troops attacked Siem Reap a month and a half ago and parts of the town. They were driven out, and Cambodian officers now say this was only a reconnaissance in force and that the main blow is expected late this month.

A Cambodian journalist who returned from the area today said villagers living in the area of the ruins told him Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops now occupy most of the temples. The villagers reported that although the Communists have abandoned the outer rings of the temple complex, they still maintain troops and a field hospital in the inner rings.

The government reported two weeks ago that the enemy had withdrawn from Angkor, but its forces made no effort to occupy the ruins. The government declared Angkor an "open city" area, free from attack on enemy forces there, so that the ruins might be spared war damage.

being the object of camera lenses could halt the procedure while they were on the stand.

And the number of cameras, microphones and photographers allowed would be limited.

Coverage of committee hearings by any of the news media would have to be in "strict conformity with and observance of the acceptable standards of dignity, propriety, courtesy and decorum traditionally observed by the House in its operations."

There would be no commercial sponsorship.

Present House rules have been interpreted to prohibit radio and television broadcasting of committee sessions.

The proposed change would become effective with the 1971 session of the House, provided the Senate approves it and the bill becomes law. The Senate now allows broadcasting of committee meetings.

The television provision would not apply to sessions of the full House.

Still to be considered when the House resumes consideration of the bill—probably Wednesday—is an amendment allowing publication of the names of members voting on what now are non-record votes on many major amendments.

Clearance of Slums is Planned

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, in what has become an almost daily routine, said again today the economy is sure of brighter days ahead although the silver cloud may have a black lining of high unemployment.

The latest assessment came after President Nixon vowed Monday to veto any strong trade bills imposing quotas on any imports except textiles.

Nixon said such mandatory quotas on other products could touch off a global trade war.

Secretary of Labor James F. Hodgson told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress today the nation is moving out of its worst inflationary period in 20 years. He predicted in prepared testimony slower price hikes and real economic growth in the months ahead.

At the same time, he said, the nation is continuing its shift from wartime production to a peacetime economy. The changeover will continue to pose some unemployment problems, he said.

His remarks were prepared for delivery before the Joint Economic Committee.

Nixon, at an impromptu news conference Monday in his oval office, said he would veto the trade bill now before the House Ways and Means Committee if it contained provisions he did not recommend.

"Mandatory quota legislation is not in the interest of the United States," he said. "We are an exporting nation rather than an importing nation. It would mean in the end, while it would save some jobs it would cost us more jobs in exports that would be denied us."

He said he only agreed to import ceiling on textiles after negotiations with Japan to set voluntary limits broke off after 16 months.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, predicted improved business conditions in the second half of the year in testimony Monday before the committee.

George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said he expects the unemployment rate to be about 5 percent or slightly under on Sept. 1.

"The economic slowdown has resulted in job cutbacks and shifts in many sectors of the economy," Hodgson said.

Gunman Kills Man, Wounds 2 Women

MIAMI (AP) — A man wounded and left for dead by a gunman who killed two women hostages after a $2,000 robbery says the slayer opened fire on his victims without cause or warning.

"I don't see why he had to hit us or kill us," Bruce Reitz, 39, night manager of the Western Union branch where the robbery occurred, told police Monday. "We were out in the middle of the field where we couldn't run."

The women killed were Reitz's girl friend, Judy Lamb, 40, and Delores Palacino, 42, the branch day manager. Reitz was shot twice in the head.

The gunman, described as dark-complexioned and 35 to 40, had held Reitz and Miss Lamb captive in an apartment all Sunday night while awaiting Mrs. Palacino's arrival to reopen the office for the day. Reitz had persuaded him a burglar alarm would sound if the office safes were opened at night.

After looting the safes, the gunman put his hostages into a car belonging to one of the women and forced Reitz to drive to a field 10 miles away, where he marched them deep into dense brush.

Then, Reitz said, the robber ordered all three to lie down side by side.

The bandit pulled two rings off Reitz's right hand.

Reitz said the man asked: "Would you be out too much if I took these rings?"

"Yeah, I guess I would," Reitz said he answered.

The gunman tossed the two rings on the ground and said: "There's a little bit of good in every thief."

Police said the man then started shooting, wounding Reitz and killing the women, all with shots in the head.

After the killer left, Reitz struggled a mile and a half before he attracted the attention of a passerby.

John Perrotti, a business executive, bandaged Reitz's head and talked to him while they waited for an ambulance. Pointing to the field he had crawled out of, Reitz said, "There's also two ladies out there bleeding."

Bus Driver Charged in 7 Deaths

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. George Joseph of Lehigh County said charges would be filed today against the driver of a bus which carried seven children to their deaths last week.

The driver, Hubert Daye, 44, of Montclair, N.J., was injured in the crash last Wednesday and is in Allentown Hospital, where his condition was listed as fair. The accident injured 51 others.

Joseph told a news conference Monday that Daye would be arraigned as soon as he was able to leave the hospital.

"We are at this time studying the possibility of filing charges against another individual or individuals associated with the Tedesco Bus Co., the owner of the bus," Joseph added.

The bus, loaded with 49 children and 10 adults on a sight-seeing trip from the Hill Country Day School in Lawrence, N.Y., skidded on a rainy highway and plunged down a 50-foot embankment.

Faubus Meet Would Suit Rockefeller

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday that he would "relish the idea" of meeting former Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the November general election.

Rockefeller made the remark in a short interview on a street corner in Mountain Home. Faubus won his sixth term by defeating Rockefeller in 1964.

Movie Industry Acts to Head Off State Laws on Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidently fearing a new wave of control, the movie industry and the nation's theater owners are appealing to the Supreme Court to guarantee them the same freedom from censorship enjoyed by book and magazine publishers.

They want to block the states from banning films cleared for national distribution and they want movies, books and magazines all judged by the court's current, liberal obscenity standards.

The Motion Picture Association of America and the National Association of Theater Owners registered their views late Monday in friend-of-court briefs for the forthcoming battle over the popular Swedish import, I Am Curious (Yellow).

One of the big issues facing the justices next term is whether the film is legally obscene and whether states can require distributors to submit movies for approval before public showing.

"Curious" survived seizure by federal customs officials in 1967 and was ordered released for distribution by the federal appeals court in New York City a year later. As a result, it has been seen by millions of Americans.

At the same time, additional

Youth Battle Police, One Student Shot

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — An 18-year-old youth has been shot to death in the latest of a series of confrontations between city police and about 150 young residents of this university town.

Harry Nicholas Rice of Leawood, Kan., a University of Kansas freshman last term, was hit in the head during a disturbance Monday night a block from the main campus gate.

Merton R. Olds, 25, of Topeka, a graduate student enrolled for summer study, suffered a minor gunshot wound in the calf of his right leg. A policeman, Don Dalquist, 26, was injured when a brick or rock hit him on the right cheekbone.

Confrontation with police have been going on sporadically for the past year. The current series started last Friday, a day after a policeman shot and killed Rick Donald Dowdell, a 19-year-old Negro student at the

Campaign Notes

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Republican joy over the switch of Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. from the Democratic fold could not have been based on any legislative success in the March special session of the General Assembly.

Cockrill, 45, of Little Rock, was a Democrat at the time, but handled a number of measures for Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, including many proposals offered on the theory that the legislature would raise taxes.

The legislative majority, of course, didn't raise taxes, and most of the measures bearing Cockrill's name as sponsor never came to a vote. Four were withdrawn.

The boxscore on measures sponsored or cosponsored by Cockrill in March shows that of the total of 82 bills, only three were approved — and Rockefeller vetoed two of those.

Bill G. Wells of Hermitage, one of the eight men seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, lacks an obvious campaign organization and says he does not have individual labor, but he also has strong contacts with local party officials.

millions have been unable to view it because of court rulings in individual cities and states. In Maryland, the ban was imposed initially by a state board of censors, the only surviving formal state board to which all films must be submitted in advance.

Out of the Supreme Court's review could come a constitutional right of adults to see any movie in a public theater no matter how raw.

However, with the court's composition growing more conservative, a new definition of obscenity, one more restrictive than the current test, is more likely. Currently, the court permits publication for adult consumption of any book or magazine that is not completely without social value and does not offend contemporary standards.

Up to now, in key decisions in 1952, 1961 and 1965, the court authorized separate and more restrictive treatment of movies. "Films differ from other forms of expression," the court said in 1965.

The Motion Picture Association contends the distinction is no longer sensible or justified. Association attorney Louis Nizer told the court movies enjoy a status equivalent to literature and may have become "the art form of our times."

Says Brighter Days Ahead for Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has quietly launched the government's first concentrated effort to rehabilitate absentee-owned slum buildings, starting with 22,000 housing units in 10 cities.

Housing Secretary George Romney said the effort—termed Project Rehab—started last winter and work is under way on 6,000 units. Officials said announcement of the program was held back to prevent speculation in the target housing.

Romney emphasized Project Rehab is designed to further the administration's plans for volume housing production and minority business enterprise.

"Few things can provide for immediate and more tangible improvement to living conditions in slum areas than volume rehabilitation," he said.

"It can also provide much-needed jobs and entrepreneur opportunities to residents of the affected neighborhoods, especially members of minority races," the secretary said.

The House Ways and Means Committee has proposed quotas on shoe and textile imports.

Beyond Vietnam and imports, Nixon ranged over a number of topics at the surprise news conference.

He said the United States has no idea of using armed forces to expel the Soviet Union from the Middle East; promised no "vigilante squad of Department of Justice agents" will force school integration in the South; predicted voters will turn against big spenders in Congress; forecast an economic upturn for the last half of the year and said he sees little chance of a tax cut during the next two years.

The President announced plans for a major meeting on national defense and the defense budget at the Western White House July 27, followed by conferences on the domestic budget for fiscal 1972.

En route to the Mount Nebo Chicken Fry Wednesday, a car adorsed with McClerkin stickers whisked along Interstate 40 at about 95 miles per hour.

Candidate Hayes C. McClerkin wasn't in the car, but a staff aide was at the wheel. One witness to the event suggested a safe driving platform might be in order.

Vietnam Rule Up to People Alone

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says the future government of South Vietnam must be selected through elections—not imposed on the war-torn nation by negotiators in Paris.

His administration will not stand for an imposed coalition government, the President said. "It must be a government selected by the people of South Vietnam."

In a wide-ranging news conference Monday, the President also said he would veto a bill setting mandatory quotas on any imports except textiles. Such quotas, he said, are not in the national interest and might set off an international trade war.

"We are an exporting nation rather than an importing nation," Nixon said. "It would mean in the end, while it would save us some jobs, it would cost us more jobs in exports that would be denied us; and, second, even more important, it is highly inflationary."
